RENDEZVOUS WITH

Marlene

Marlene Dietrich was a woman of the future.

After the success of her movie “The Blue Angel” in Weimar Berlin 1930 she left for America to become a glamorous Hollywood Diva. But then the Germans wanted her to come back to become their movie star for the Nazis.

She refused, saying “It did not take much brains to be an anti-Nazi”. All her life she hated autocrats and fascists, and she always liked to break the rules. Her plan to assassinate Hitler was never realized, but instead she publicly renounced her German citizenship and officially celebrated her newly acquired American citizenship, to demonstrate her loyalty to the USA. When the war started she signed up for the American Army and spent more time at the front lines than General Eisenhower.

15 years after the war she returned to Germany to give concerts with her beloved musical director Burt Bacharach. The crowds were standing in front of the concert halls in Berlin screaming with hatred: MARLENE GO HOME ! She was denounced as a "Traitor of the Fatherland" and spit upon in Germany for decades. She decided to never go back to her homeland. She lived an exuberant life and career for decades in the US until the late 1970s when she hid out as an aged recluse in Paris until her death. During her 3-hour phone call with Ute Lemper in 1987 she expressed the wish to come back one more time to her homeland...

dead, in a coffin!

Even at her funeral in Berlin in 1992 the Neo Nazis demonstrated against her…

In “Rendezvous With Marlene” Ute Lemper channels her story in a time warp. Now is the time to remember... The story of a woman of the future, her courage, bravery, her empowerment as a women, her legend as an actress, singer, fashion icon, her free spirited mind as a bisexual androgynous hedonist and her life long hatred and fight against autocrats and nationalists.
“Rendezvous with Marlene” is based on a 3-hour phone call and exchange between Marlene Dietrich and Ute Lemper in 1988 in Paris, more than 30 years ago.

After receiving the French Molière Award for her performance in “Cabaret” in Paris, Ute had sent a postcard to Marlene, who had lived at 12 Avenue de Montaigne since 1979, essentially apologizing for all the media attention comparing her to Marlene Dietrich. Ute was just at the beginning of her career in theatre and music, whereas Marlene looked back on a long, fulfilled life of movies, music, incredible collaborations, love stories and stardom.

★★★★★ “It’s a huge thrill to see and hear Ute up close in so intimate a space, and to witness her evocation of Marlene with such skill and humanity”

- Broadway World, UK

Ute considers it a secret gift to have heard Marlene talk about her life, her work and style, her love for the poet Rilke, her complicated relationship with Germany, her sorrow and her fascinations. Marlene was a groundbreaking woman. She was a free spirit, sexual, seductive, yet masculine, androgynous, and totally polygamous in her open marriage. She was politically and morally outspoken and courageous; ladylike and bossy at the same time... she had class but loved whiskey, dirty jokes and a good smoke. She was “a heck of a guy to hang out with” said Billy Wilder. But, she was also a mystery... a glamorous Hollywood actress... a statue, frozen in stylism. A myth.

Six days before Ute’s opening night playing the part of Lola in the 1992 “Blue Angel” production in Berlin – the role that had made Marlene a star in 1928 – Marlene Dietrich passed away in Paris. After her glamorous funeral in La Madeleine, Marlene finally came back to Berlin to be put to rest.

“Rendezvous with Marlene” received critical acclaim following a presentation in London in June 2019, and this show will tour the stages of the world in 2021.
For 35 years Ute has been compared to Marlene, but never formatted an entire show to celebrate this legend.

In 2019, Ute decided to honor Marlene with a brand-new show based on the true story of their phone call, including some of Marlene’s most beautiful songs and telling some captivating secrets of her life.

“This is far more than a chronology of her life and career. Lemper takes us deeper into the mind of Dietrich, her personal memories, her loves, her thoughts, her feelings, her many sexual encounters, and her relationships, that with Germany, and that with her daughter, Maria Riva, both sad and tragic.

Lemper's performance as Dietrich is exceptional, aided by, like Dietrich, being fluent in English and French, as well as their native German. On top of that are her sensational interpretations of the many songs that link the sections of the monologue.”

- Broadway World, Adelaide

This one-woman, very personal homage to Dietrich, is written and performed by Ute Lemper. The evening is a dialog between Ute and Marlene, exploring Marlene's career and personal life from the beginning, in a timeline that eventually meets Ute’s timeline with a continuation of their parallel stories. In it she shares Marlene's story by singing her iconic songs as the older Dietrich from all the chapters of her life – the Berlin cabaret years to her fabulous Burt Bacharach collaborations, with Lemper singing songs as herself that were her inspiration as a young aspiring singer/actress.
Songs included in “Rendezvous With Marlene”:

- Where Have All The Flowers Gone / Sag mir wo die Blumen sind  (Pete Seeger)
- Just A Gigolo  (Leonello Casucci)
- One For My Baby  (Harold Arlen / Johnny Mercer)
- Life's A Swindle  (Mischa Spoliansky / Marcellus Schiffer)
- They Call Me Naughty Lola / Ich bin die fesche Lola  (Friedrich Hollaender)
- Boys In The Backroom  (Frank Loesser / Friedrich Hollaender)
- Lili Marleen  (Norbert Schulze / Hans Leip)
- Ruins Of Berlin  (Friedrich Hollaender)
- Black Market  (Friedrich Hollaender)
- When The World Was Young  (Johnny Mercer / M. Philippe-Gérard)
- Ne me quitte pas  (Jacques Brel)
- Laziest Gal In Town  (Cole Porter)
- Die Antwort mein Freund weiss ganz allein der Wind / The Answer My Friend Is Blowing In The Wind
  (Bob Dylan)
- Que reste-t-il de nos amours / I Wish You Love  (Charles Trenet)
- Falling In Love Again  (Friedrich Hollaender)

Optional additional songs, especially for German and European Market:

- Marie, Marie  (Gilbert Becaud / Max Colpet)
- Wenn der Sommer wieder einzieht / A Little On The Lonely Side
  (Dick Robertson / Frank Weldon / James Cavanaugh / Lothar Metzl)
- Koffer in Berlin  (Friedrich Hollaender)
- Wenn ich mir was wenschen dürfte  (Friedrich Hollaender)
- Allein in einer grossen Stadt  (Franz Wachsmann / Max Colpet)
★★★★★ 5 stars for UTE LEMPER: RENDEZVOUS WITH MARLENE

“We see both Dietrich and Lemper at the top of their game, for it becomes impossible to discern where one ends and the other begins. La nouvelle Marlene, indeed.” - Musical Theater Review

“By a huge margin the finest act of sustained, emotional intensity and fearless self-revelation I’ve ever seen. Ute – like Bowie, Callas and Garland before her – is in an unprecedented class of her own.” - The Gay UK

“I want to incarnate Marlene Dietrich and tell her story.” - Ute Lemper, London Theatre

“She was a mix of the sensual and the powerful and Lemper gives that fusion an exquisite airing in this memorable production.” - Limelight Magazine

“Keep an eye open for the return of Rendezvous with Marlene, planned for later this year, and you’ll be certain to find yourself Falling in Love again. Astonishing!” - PrideLife

“The show is an incredible journey through Marlene’s life.” - Broadway World, UK
